

Il Mare Di Am Storie Di Una Famiglia Che Cambia Nel Mare Della Vita

This book analyses the European border at Lampedusa as a metaphor for visible and invisible powers that impinge on relations between Europe and Africa/Asia. Taking an interdisciplinary approach (political, social, cultural, economic and artistic), it explores the island as a place where social relations based around race, gender, sex, age and class are being reproduced and/or subverted. The authors argue that Lampedusa should be understood as a synecdoche for European borders and boundaries. Widening the classical definition of the term 'border', the authors examine the different meanings assigned to the term by migrants, the local population, seafarers and associative actors based on their subjective and embodied experiences. They reveal how migration policies, international relations with African, Middle Eastern and Asian countries, and the perpetuation of new forms of colonization and imperialism entail heavy consequences for the European Union. This work will appeal to a wide readership, from scholars of migration, anthropology and sociology, to students of political science, Italian, African and cultural studies.

My book is not an ordinary story. It is the life story of an exceptional young artist that was born in the same area of Tuscany, Italy that gave birth to Leonardo da Vinci of Mona Lisa fame, Michelangelo of the David and the Sistine Chapel ceiling and Giacomo Puccini of La Boheme and Tosca. The young Artist Sculptor, full of art, music, love and great expectations, goes to give his love and skill in a different land with different culture and different people – the British. The young artist is a genius, but he is not understood by the people he meets. He sees things, he experiences things and he tells them. The reader should suffer what he has suffered. And only because he was not living in the land of his birth he was treated as a foreigner even after fifty years.

Le quattordici storie raccolte in Carretera, ambientate in mondi e culture geograficamente lontani, hanno un denominatore comune: il cammino. Il cammino, e quindi la strada, come τόπος, teatro di situazioni reali, ma anche metafora di un passaggio, di una svolta: in entrambi i casi, l'uomo che li ha attraversati non è più la stessa persona che ha iniziato quel cammino. È in viaggio che avviene il grottesco addio al celibato in Kattenkabinet, e strada facendo prende corpo la curiosità, innocente e un po' ridicola, della coppia di provincia di Christmas Miracle. La strada è il mare dei clandestini di Mare Nostrum e la lussuosa nave del protagonista del Compleanno del Faraone. La strada è il parco dove rintrona la fantasticità di Compagno di merenda, e l'ospedale nel quale la protagonista di Abracadabra s'imbatte in una sanità bulimica e surreale. Sulla strada s'incrociano le vicende dei personaggi di Conosci il Paese dove fioriscono i limoni? e lungo la via Vanni prende coscienza della tragedia che il suo Paese sta vivendo. Uomini e donne di ogni età e condizione sulla carretera, percorrendo un cammino personale e collettivo che si perpetua all'infinito. Carretera è anche il nome della storia ambientata in Sudamerica che dà il titolo alla raccolta.

Edizioni integrali Il lupo dei mari (1904) è il quarto romanzo di London: ispirato, come tutte le sue opere, alla sua diretta esperienza, fu accolto dal pubblico con immediato entusiasmo. Il protagonista è il tipico personaggio londinese, lettore di Darwin e Spencer, che si propone di «sopravvivere a qualsiasi prezzo alle imboscate della vita»: perduto allegoricamente nel mare dell'ignoranza, dovrà fare il suo tirocinio per guadagnarsi la stima di sé e l'amore della donna, accedendo finalmente alla maturità. Sempre nutrite di esperienze personali, le imprese grandi e piccole narrate nei Racconti della pattuglia guardiapescia con giovanile spensieratezza sono invece caratterizzate da un tono narrativo allegro e disinvolto. Costante riferimento della vita e dell'opera di London, il mare è il grande protagonista di queste storie, simbolo irrinunciabile delle asperità dell'esistenza. Jack London pseudonimo di John Griffith Chaney, nacque nel 1876 a San Francisco. Viaggiò moltissimo ed esercitò i più svariati mestieri, da mozzo a cacciatore di foche, a lustrascarpe a commerciante. Riuscì tuttavia, da autodidatta, a crearsi una solida cultura con lo studio disordinato dei grandi autori europei. La lettura di Marx, il contatto con i vagabondi americani, la sua stessa vita spesso miserabile lo spinsero verso un socialismo istintivo. Esordì come scrittore pubblicando i suoi racconti su periodici locali. Morì, forse suicida, nel 1916. Di Jack London la Newton Compton ha pubblicato in questa collana Il richiamo della foresta, Zanna Bianca e altre storie di cani; Il Tallone di ferro; Il lupo dei mari e Racconti della pattuglia guardiapescia, Martin Eden e nella collana "I Mammut" I grandi romanzi e i racconti.

Wide-ranging stories offer glimpse into witchcraft, magic, Crusaders, astrology, alchemy, pacts with the Devil, chivalry, trial by torture, church councils, mercantile life, other elements of Middle Ages.

Microfossils are an abundant component of the sedimentary rock record. Their analysis can reveal not only the environments in which the rocks were deposited, but also their age. When combined, the spatial and temporal distribution patterns of microfossils offer enormous utility for archaeological and forensic investigations. Their presence can act as a geological 'fingerprint' and the tiniest fragment of material, such as a broken Iron Age potsherd, can contain a microfossil signature that reveals the geographical source of the materials under investigation. This book explores how microfossils are employed as tools to interpret human society and habitation throughout history. Examples include microfossil evidence associated with Palaeolithic human occupation at Boxgrove in Sussex, alongside investigations into human-induced landscape change during the Holocene. Further examples include the use of microfossils to provenance the source materials of Iron Age ceramics, Roman mosaics and Minoan pottery, in addition to their application to help solve modern murder cases, highlighting the diverse applications of microfossils to improving our understanding of human history.

Originally published in 1982, this title supplies a complete verbal index, listing all the words in the texts with their locations, a word frequency table, and a field of reference which establishes a page/line reference system for locating each context. The user will look first in the word frequency table to see whether or not the word in question occurs in these works. Then they will turn to the verbal index to find the line and page on which it occurs, and finally, turning to the location in the field of reference, they will find the context for their word.

Studying abroad in Germany embarks Paul Welch on an adventure he will never forget. From the rigors and joys of learning a new language and set of friends to traveling in his free time, the experiences of the year both open his eyes and confirm his deepest held beliefs. The biggest adventure and reward of all, though, proves to be love. A month before classes start, Welch arrives in the Bavarian town of Erlangen to take an intensive language course at the Friedrich-Alexander Universität. Here, he makes quick friends with many other students throughout Europe. One of with whom, Maria, he hits it off amazingly well. But just as he is about to ask her out, he learns that she is dating one of the other guys in the course, Tommy. Despite the odds against it, Luke has the conviction that he and Maria will have their chance together. Before everyone from the language course goes their separate ways, Maria invites Paul to come to Sardinia during his spring break to visit her and another friend from the course. He decides not to say anything to her at the time but makes a commitment to himself to follow through and go visit her in the spring. Paul moves on to Darmstadt, where he will be studying for the next year and slowly adapts to his new life. Months pass, friends are made, new adventures are had. While his zeal for visiting Maria has been tempered by the question of how a short visit can lead to something lasting, he follows through on the commitment to himself to go and visit her.

This second volume of Italian Short Stories, with its parallel translations aims - as the first volume did - to exemplify the richness and variety of Italian writing of the twentieth century. In this volume, however, some of the language used is a little more advanced and the translations slightly less literal. Moravia and Calvino, both well known to British and American readers, appear again along with Italo Svevo, Comisso, Vittorini, Rigoni - Stern, Fenoglio and Pasolini so that the literature of both Rome and the provinces is fully represented. There are also discussions of the less familiar words and dialect expressions in the Italian text.

I Racconti di donne dal Mediterraneo, sono quelli delle migranti che abbiamo ascoltato nel corso della ricerca in Sicilia, al centro di questo mare. Con il cambiamento delle migrazioni, il flusso crescente di persone in fuga da guerre e regimi non democratici e alla ricerca di una speranza di vita migliore, sono cambiate anche le donne: ragazze e madri sempre più numerose, in cammino attraverso peripezie di ogni genere, soccombenti ad abusi e violenze lungo il viaggio, e talora anche nel paese accogliente. Come vivono l'appartenenza e il dialogo interculturale? È cambiata la loro identità? Quali sono le dinamiche per l'integrazione e l'inclusione? Abbiamo cercato delle risposte a questi interrogativi sia attraverso il testo scritto sia con un cortometraggio di Sociologia visuale (<https://youtu.be/ymH6PhHC6R0>) sia con un reportage fotografico. La ricerca, diretta da Carmelina Chiara Canta, è stata realizzata dai membri del laboratorio Plu.C. di Roma Tre, che hanno analizzato i diversi aspetti sociologici.

Una galleria di personaggi che hanno lasciato una traccia profonda nella storia della città Che Napoli sia «un paradiso abitato da diavoli» è un adagio che dal Medioevo in poi ha goduto di vasta e ampia fortuna. Ai nostri giorni sembra che l'antico detto stia più che mai rinvivendosi, specialmente per il degrado del vivere quotidiano, accompagnato da una sistematica inosservanza delle regole. A fare da contrappunto, la costante volontà di chi ancora vuole testimoniare la nobile e secolare storia della città e farne conoscere i complessi monumentali e gli incanti paesaggistici famosi nel mondo. Questo manuale si propone di raccontare la storia curiosa e insolita di tiranni ed eroi, di miserabili e santi di Napoli così da scoprire la trama intrigante e un poco pettegola della perfetta e potente immagine celestialmente infernale, talvolta burlona e boccaccesca, che la città ha assunto nel corso della sua storia. Una raccolta di agili, curiose e irriverenti biografie dei protagonisti della storia della città, che mostrano come Napoli non sia semplicemente vicoli, strade, palazzi, piazze, mare, ma anche e soprattutto le persone che vivendola le hanno dato vita. Napoli emerge dalle storie di coloro che l'hanno vissuta Tra i personaggi raccontati: • Abbondanza, Marco. Nemo propheta in patria? • Bassolino, Antonio. Il sindaco controverso • Caravaggio, Michelangelo Merisi. L'inquietudine creativa • Carosone, Renato. 'O Sarracino della canzone napoletana • D'Acquisto, Salvo. Il cuore grande di un carabiniere • Federico II di Svevia. L'intelligenza e la saggezza al potere • Pisacane, Carlo. Un eroe dimenticato e discusso • Saviano, Roberto. Lo scrittore anticamorra • Tommaso Aniello, detto Masaniello. Il tribuno della rivolta napoletana • Vico, Giambattista. Il filosofo napoletano per eccellenza Giovanni Liccardo È archeologo e storico della tarda antichità. Oltre a studi per riviste («National Geographic», «Rivista di archeologia cristiana») e miscellanee, ha pubblicato vari saggi, tra i quali Vita quotidiana a Napoli prima del Medioevo. Per la Newton Compton ha scritto molti libri di napoletanistica, tra i quali Guida insolita ai misteri, ai segreti, alle leggende e alle curiosità di Napoli sotterranea; La grande guida dei musei di Napoli; Campania sconosciuta; Il grande libro dei misteri di Napoli e della Campania; Il grande libro dei quartieri di Napoli e Storia irriverente di eroi, santi e tiranni di Napoli.

RACCONTI METAMORFICI I racconti metamorfici sono una raccolta di quasi sessanta racconti, benedetti da Apollo, nati strada facendo nell'impeto del divenire, nella foga della creazione sibillina. Metafora della vita quotidiana che si trasforma attraverso i propri innocenti sogni. Versi michelangioleschi fioriti all'alba e spenti a sera nel letto tra mille cupi pensieri fuggendo da Morfeo. I racconti Metamorfici sono correlati da canti poetici, impressioni poetiche che emergono nell'espressione individuale quasi volgare crogiolo dialogico della ragione poetica. Poesia intima, ripeto espressiva che descrive il vago timore, la bellezza dell'essere, il bisogno di sentirsi liberi nel flusso immaginario di una coscienza metafisica universale. Cosa sono i racconti metamorfici, sono metafore del vivere, metamorfosi dell'essere nel divenire comune, trascendenti il proprio io in mille altre identità, sintetizzati in concetti che sono espressioni, rappresentazioni soggettive della nostra storia, fatta da uomini e donne, di vita e morte. Speranze e certezze, vanno e vengono come le onde del mare nel vasto della memoria ed oltre ci conducono nel vago indefinito fluire di rime e ritmi. Racconti, canti del divenire di un vivere di cui il fine ultimo è la meraviglia del creare. Gioia dell'essere, espressione di una libertà interiore, unendo mondi e civiltà, razze e religione, uomini e poeti di ogni ceto sociale, tutti uguali sotto l'ombrello al riparo dalla insistente pioggia, scrosciante dall'alto mentre gli angeli cantano: Alleluia, Alleluia.

The emergence of new and substantial human migration flows is one of the most important consequences of globalisation. While ascribable to widely differing social and economic causes, from the forced migration of refugees to upper-middle-class migration projects and the movement of highly skilled workers, what they have in common is the effect of contributing to a substantial global redefinition in terms of both identity and politics. This book contains contributions from scholars in the fields of law, social sciences, the sciences, and the liberal arts, brought together to delineate the features of the migration phenomena that will accompany us over the coming decades. The focus is on the multifaceted concept of 'border' as representing a useful stratagem for dealing with a topic like migration that requires analysis from several perspectives. The authors discuss the various factors and issues which must be understood in all their complexity so that they can be governed by all social stakeholders, free of manipulation and false consciousness. They bring an interdisciplinary and comparative perspective to the social phenomena such as human trafficking, unaccompanied foreign minors, or ethnic-based niches in the job market. The book will be a valuable guide for academics, students and policy-makers.

In 1996, the Italian Great White Shark Data Bank began collecting and recording encounters in the Mediterranean between great white sharks and boats, bathers, divers, fishermen and others, from the Middle Ages to the present. This meticulously researched work presents the study's findings for the first time, releasing a trove of information on the great white's size, distribution, habitat, behavior, reproduction, diet, fisheries and attacks on humans. With 596 records of great white sharks from the entire Mediterranean Sea, this volume represents the most complete and comprehensive study on the species in that region and constitutes a rich resource for historians, scientists, fishermen, and divers.

It has often been assumed that Europeans invented and had the exclusive monopoly over courtly and romantic love, commonly considered to be the highest form of relations between men and women. This view was particularly prevalent between 1770 and the mid-twentieth century, but was challenged in the 1960s when romantic love came to be seen as a universal sentiment that can be found in all cultures in the world. However, there remains the historical problem that the Europeans used this concept of love as a fundamental part of their self-image over a long period (traces of it still remain) and it became very much caught up in the concept of marriage. This book challenges the underlying Eurocentrism of this notion while exploring in a more general sense the connection between identity and emotions.

The Etruscans can be shown to have made significant, and in some cases perhaps the first, technical advances in the central and northern Mediterranean. To the Etruscan people we can attribute such developments as the tie-beam truss in large wooden structures, surveying and engineering drainage and water tunnels, the development of the foresail for fast long-distance sailing vessels, fine techniques of metal production and other pyrotechnology, post-mortem C-sections in medicine, and more. In art, many technical and iconographic developments, although they certainly happened first in Greece or the Near East, are first seen in extant Etruscan works, preserved in the lavish tombs and goods of Etruscan aristocrats. These include early portraiture, the first full-length painted portrait, the first perspective view of a human figure in monumental art, specialized techniques of bronze-casting, and reduction-fired pottery (the bucchero phenomenon). Etruscan contacts, through trade, treaty and intermarriage, linked their culture with Sardinia, Corsica and Sicily, with the Italic tribes of the peninsula, and with the Near Eastern kingdoms, Greece and the Greek colonial world, Iberia, Gaul and the Punic network of North Africa, and influenced the cultures of northern Europe. In the past fifteen years striking advances have been made in scholarship and research techniques for Etruscan Studies. Archaeological and scientific discoveries have changed our picture of the Etruscans and furnished us with new, specialized information. Thanks to the work of dozens of international scholars, it is now possible to discuss topics of interest that could never before be researched, such as Etruscan mining and metallurgy, textile production, foods and agriculture. In this volume, over 60 experts provide insights into all these aspects of Etruscan culture, and more, with many contributions available in English for the first time to allow the reader access to research that may not otherwise be available to them. Lavishly illustrated, The Etruscan World brings to life the culture and material past of the Etruscans and highlights key points of development in research, making it essential reading for researchers, academics and students of this fascinating civilization.

Calvino and the Pygmalion Paradigm: Fashioning the Feminine in I nostri antenati and Gli amori difficili is the first book-length analysis of the representation of the feminine in Calvino's fiction. Using the structural umbrella of the Pygmalion paradigm and using feminist interpretative techniques, this book offers interesting alternative readings of two of Calvino's important early narrative collections. The Pygmalion paradigm concerns the creation by a male 'artist' of a feminine ideal and highlights the artificiality and narcissistic desire associated with the creation process. This book discusses Calvino's active and deliberate work of self-creation, accomplished through extensive self-commentaries and exposes both the lack of importance Calvino placed on the feminine in his narratives and the relative absence of critical attention focused on this area. Relying on the analogy between Pygmalion's pieces of ivory and Barthes' 'seme' and drawing upon the ideas underlying Kristevan intertextuality, the book demonstrates that, despite Calvino's professed lack of interest in character development, his female characters are carefully and purposefully constructed. A close reading of Calvino's narratives, engaging directly with Freud, Lacan and the feminist psychoanalytical thinking of Kofmann, Kristeva, Kaplan and others, demonstrates how Calvino uses his female characters as foils for the existential reflections of his typically maladjusted and narcissistic male characters.

This carefully crafted ebook: "ARTHUR MACHEN Ultimate Collection: Dark Fantasy Classics, Supernatural Tales & Horror Stories (Including Essays, Translations & Autobiography)" is formatted for your eReader with a functional and detailed table of contents. Arthur Machen (1863-1947) was a Welsh author and mystic of the 1890s and early 20th century. He is best known for his influential supernatural, fantasy, and horror fiction. His novella The Great God Pan has garnered a reputation as a classic of horror (Stephen King has called it "Maybe the best [horror story] in the English language"). Historian of fantastic literature Brian Stableford has suggested that Machen "was the first writer of authentically modern horror stories, and his best works must still be reckoned among the finest products of the genre". This anthology is a collection of works from the Europa Postmediaevalis conference held in Prague in the spring of 2018. As the name of the conference suggests, the subject of interest is the Early Modern period (15th to 18th century) and the manner in which this relatively young discipline in the field of archaeology is approached in Europe.
