De Heptarchia Mystica, or On the Mystical Rule of the Seven Planets, is a book written in 1582-83 by English alchemist John Dee. It is a guidebook for summoning angels under the guidance of the angel Uriel and contains diagrams and formulae. This book consists of detailed instructions for communicating with angels and employing their aid for practical purposes. Written in the form of a personal Grimoire, or handbook of magic, it consists of excerpts and elaborations from Dee's detailed records of his "mystical exercises" found in Mysteriorum Libri Quinque.

Les voisins... On les deteste, parfois, ou alors on prend l'apero chez eux ! Mais on peut aussi, au choix: en tomber amoureux, devenir leur bouc emissaire, decouvrir sur eux d'incroyables secrets, les tuer, les denoncer... ou les supporter ! Et il y a aussi d'autres genres de voisins, pas seulement ceux que l'on croise sur son palier avant d'aller au travail. Le type assis sur le meme banc public, ceux que l'on est obligé de cotoyer durant un voyage, le facheux qui partage la meme chambre d'hospital, et meme celui qui cohabite dans notre propre cerveau... Voici une vingtaine de nouvelles sur le theme du voisinage, chacune dans des univers, des approches et des styles tres differents. Les voisins qu'on y croise amorcent de belles histoires d'amour ou se transforment en zombies, font un bout du chemin ensemble ou en perdent leur latin: polar, fantastique, SF, tous les genres se cotoient dans ce recueil concocte par les auteurs des Editions Helene Jacob, avec humour ou gravite, drolerie ou ferocite, tendresse ou ironie. Car si l'on choisit ses amis, seul le hasard decide pour nous ceux qui s'immiscent, souvent bien contre notre gre et contre le leur, dans notre existence quotidienne... Participent a ce recueil: Kathy Dorl ( Ce que femme veut... et Fifty-fifty ) Valerie Hervy ( Esquisses d'elles ) Charles Demassieux ( Une legende chretienne et Les vraies fables du conteur Lepeintre ) Jean-Claude Thibault ( Dix jours pour mourir, Mortifere, l'actionnaire ! et Micmacs Horribilis ) Madeline Desmurs ( Lies par le sang ) Melanie Wency (Trilogie L'envers du paradis ) Ariane Fusain (Trilogie Plus rien ne sera comme avant ) Herve Heurtebise ( Journal d'un proctologue ) Audrey & Natacha Ajasse ( Croc-Odile ) Marie-Pierre Bardou ( L'heure du tigre, Antares et la saga Dia Linn ) Emmanuelle Soulard (Trilogie Les invocateurs ) RoseLys DesDunes ( Tu es Pierre ) Yannick Billaut ( L'emoi d'aout ) Manou Fuentes ( L'homme qui voulait rester dans son coin, Habemus Praesidem et Miss Smart ) Melissa Restous ( Dix avril ) Nathalie Desormeaux ( Une saison japonaise ) Olivier Lerouge ( Le secret de l'epine ) Dominique Lebel ( Elle s'appelait Sonia Verjik et Monstres ) Marjorie Loup ( Ensorcele - Pour l'amour d'une reine ) Marie-Noelle Garric ( Giroflee - Vie et mort d'une sorciere ) M.I.A ( Remoras, La Trappe et la trilogie La Faille )

PREFACE. THE Author of this very practical treatise on Scotch Loch - Fishing desires clearly that it may be of use to all who had it. He does not pretend to have written anything new, but to have attempted to put what he has to say in as readable a form as possible. Everything in the way of the history and habits of fish has been studiously avoided, and technicalities have been used as sparingly as possible. The writing of this book has afforded him pleasure in his leisure moments, and that pleasure would be much increased if he knew that the perusal of it would create any bond of sympathy between himself and the angling community in general. This section is interleaved with blank sheets for the readers notes. The Author need hardly say that any suggestions addressed to the case of the publishers, will meet with consideration in a future edition. We do not pretend to write or enlarge upon a new subject. Much has been said and written—and well said and written too on the art of fishing but loch-fishing has been rather looked upon as a second-rate performance, and to dispel this idea is one of the objects for which this present treatise has been written. Far be it from us to say anything against fishing, lawfully practised in any form but many pent up in our large towns will bear us out when we say that, on the whole, a days loch-fishing is the most convenient. One great matter is, that the loch-fisher is dependent on nothing but enough wind to curl the water, -and on a large loch it is very seldom that a dead calm prevails all day, -and can make his arrangements for a day, weeks beforehand whereas the stream-fisher is dependent for a good take on the state of the water and however pleasant and easy it may be for one living near the banks of a good trout stream or river, it is quite another matter to arrange for a days river-fishing, if one is looking forward to a holiday at a date some weeks ahead. Providence may favour the expectant angler with a good day, and the water in order but experience has taught most of us that the good days are in the minority, and that, as is the case with our rapid running streams, -such as many of our northern streams are, -the water is either too large or too small, unless, as previously remarked, you live near at hand, and can catch it at its best. A common belief in regard to loch-fishing is, that the tyro and the experienced angler have nearly the same chance in fishing, -the one from the stern and the other from the bow of the same boat. Of all the absurd beliefs as to loch-fishing, this is one of the most absurd. Try it. Give the tyro either end of the boat he likes give him a cast of ally flies he may fancy, or even a cast similar to those which a crack may be using and if he catches one for every three the other has, he may consider himself very lucky. Of course there are lochs where the fish are not abundant, and a beginner may come across as many as an older fisher but we speak of lochs where there are fish to be caught, and where each has a fair chance. Again, it is said that the boatman has as much to do with catching trout in a loch as the angler. Well, we don't deny that. In an untried loch it is necessary to have the guidance of a good boatman but the same argument holds good as to stream-fishing...

The first-of-its-kind exhibit cataloged here focuses on the women of Egypt from all levels of society in works compiled strictly from American collections by American curators. Because the quantity of written records is limited (though enormous in comparison to most early societies), there is still much guesswork involved in determining the place women held in Egyptian society. It is clear that, unlike most ancient and not-so-ancient societies, Egypt conferred on women the legal right to own property and to barter their own goods, which means a larger record for current study. The essays here are both erudite and fascinating to read; the illustrations are clear and well presented in conjunction with the text. 117 colour & 112 b/w illustrations

Blending memoir with Smith's own drawings and paintings, We Did Porn will do for alt porn what Hunter S. Thompson did for motorcycle gangs and Tom Wolfe for psychedelica. Blending memoir with Smith's own drawings and paintings, We Did Porn will do for alt porn what Hunter S. Thompson did for motorcycle gangs and Tom Wolfe for psychedelica. Punk artist and icon Zak Smith made a name for himself by visually interpreting Thomas Pynchon's Gravity's Rainbow and drawing pictures of girls in the "naked girl business." His artistic pedigree and acute observation landed him in high-profile shows from the Whitney to the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art. Somewhere along the line, Smith went from the observer to the observed, from the guy in the corner with a sketchpad to the guy on-screen doing the unnamable for anyone eighteen or older to see. We Did Porn follows Zak Smith (or Zak Sabbath) from the New York art scene to Los Angeles's seedy, yet colorful, underbelly—the world of alt porn. Smith narrates his own foray into pornography and gives his readers a new understanding of the industry, its players, and its audience.
