OET is conducted to assess the English Language Fluency Level for overseas qualified health professionals who are looking for career opportunities here in Australia.

The purpose of the Occupational English Test is to evaluate the English competence of people who have trained as medical and health practitioners in one country and wish to gain provisional registration to practice their profession in an English-speaking context. The Listening sub-test is based on topics and tasks common to all candidates and consists of two parts: a recorded, simulated professional-patient consultation with note-taking questions and a recorded talk or lecture on a health-related topic with short-answer/note-taking questions. A set of questions is attached to each section.

Yatdjuligin: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Nursing and Midwifery Care introduces students to the fundamentals of health care of Indigenous Australians, encompassing the perspectives of both the client and the health practitioner. Written for all nurses and midwives, this book addresses the relationship between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures and mainstream health services and introduces readers to practice and research in a variety of healthcare contexts. This new edition has been fully updated to reflect current research and documentation, with an emphasis on cultural safety. Three new chapters cover Torres Strait Islander health and wellbeing, social and emotional wellbeing in mainstream mental health services and quantitative research. Chapter content is complemented by case study scenarios, author reflections and reflection questions. These features illustrate historical and contemporary challenges, encourage students to reflect on their own attitudes and values, and provide strategies to deliver quality, person-centred health care.
